Scientists Find Prehistoric Zoo

Fossils 60 Million Years Old Are Discovered in New Mexico.

NEW YORK — A prehistoric zoo has been unearthed in New Mexico. First came fossils of the earliest dinosaurs. Then alligator-like creatures.

According to a new report from an expedition of the American Museum of Natural History, more than 40 other kinds of animals that lived about 60 million years ago—just about the start of the age of mammals to which man belongs—have been dug up near Landith, N. M.

Included in these new finds are the fossils of the lemur, believed to be a relative or a forerunner of man. This animal, which still lives in the world, particularly Madagascar, is not the so-called "missing link."

The lemur, a small animal about a foot high, resembles a monkey but had a sharp, fox-like face. Dr. George Simpson, head of the expedition, reported that fossils of several lemurs had been turned up.

He described the new finds as "the richest jingle deposit of early mammal bones ever found in the Southwest and perhaps of this age in the world."

Many Queer Ones.

Simpson's preliminary report, released by Wayne M. Faunce, acting director of the museum, said the new discoveries include the fossils of extinct species of snails, fishes, lizards, snakes, turtles, alligators and squirrel-like rodents, the flesh-eating creodonts, the four-toed horse, called eohippus, and the grim ancestors of all—complete skeletons of the meniscotherium.

The meniscotherium long has been a "mystery animal" and the new discoveries are expected to clear up many unanswered questions about this creature.

The new discovery, according to the report from the Smithsonian, has made it possible definitely to identify the meniscotherium as a small mammal.

The creature had a head only four or five inches long. It stood about a foot high. It had five toes on each foot, and each toe had a separate hoof.

The meniscotherium, a plant eater, didn't last long, the scientists say. Paleontologically speaking, it was a weakling and became extinct quickly.

In Triassic Period.

Faunce said the skeletons were of creatures that belonged to the Theropoda order of dinosaurs in the Triassic period and that heretofore these were known to have existed only from bone fragments.

He added that information is as yet incomplete because recent desert storms had destroyed communications from the site of the discovery.

First reports, Faunce said, indicated the creatures had very long hind legs on which they ran and short forelegs which they used to grasp their prey.

Two-Hour Surgical Operation Saves Life of 'Blue Baby'

BALTIMORE. — A "blue baby" operation was performed successfully at Johns Hopkins Hospital on 18-month-old Billy Corn of Gaston, Ind.

When the baby was wheeled into the operating room, his lips, ears and fingertips were blue. When the surgery was completed almost two hours later, they were pink.

Billy, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Corn, kept vigil outside the operating room, was placed in an oxygen tent, the usual precautionary procedure for a 48-hour post-operative period.

The delicate operation was performed by Dr. Alfred Blalock, who with Dr. Helen Taussig, developed the technique to correct a malformation of the heart shutting off a proper flow of oxygen to the bloodstream.

Courteous Chinese Acquit 14 Japs, Throw a Banquet

TSINGTAO, CHINA — A Chinese press dispatch from Tsinan, Shantung province capital, said that a Chinese military tribunal acquitted 14 Japanese officers charged with war crimes, then gave all 14 a banquet.

Included was a Colonel Yamaoka, commander of Japanese gendarmerie at Tsinan during the war.

The dispatch said that during the sumptuous dinner the guests were lectured on the "magnanimity" of Chinese.

The guests reportedly agreed; they enthusiastically shouted "banzai!" three times.

Teacher Dies at Table While Making Address at Banquet

CHICAGO.—Gerhardt J. Decker, 40, history teacher at Christian high school, died of a heart attack as he addressed a banquet celebrating his appointment to a new educational post in Iowa.

He was stricken in a dining room of a hotel. His wife, LaVerne, fainted and required the services of a physician.

Decker was to have joined the history department of Central college, Pella, Iowa, at the start of the fall term.

School Faculty Finds Key To Permanent Wedding Tie

SILVER SPRINGS, N. Y. — Handcuffs are a poor substitute for the wedding ring, members of the local high school faculty found.

At a summer party, the group staged a mock wedding. The ceremony culminated as the "groom" — a village trustee — tenderly clapped a pair of handcuffs around his "bride's" wrists.

The "minister" improvised: "You whom metal has joined together, let no key put asunder."

The words proved to hold more truth than poetry when the padlock key failed to work.

An hour later, a deputy sheriff was summoned from a nearby town and legally "dissolved" the marriage.

Dazed Worker and Rescuer Battle at Fourth Story Up

BALTIMORE.—Two construction workers struggled on a scaffold four stories above the ground before hundreds of onlookers.

The participants were Edward Jones, 41, who fell ill while chipping bricks on a downtown building, and Warren Catherman, 64, who swung himself up to the rescue on a boatswain's chair.

When Catherman attempted to steady the dazed man on the wooden perch, Jones started struggling frantically.

Catherman said he finally tried to knock Jones out to quiet him, and needed the help of Jesse Walker, 38, to hold him while firemen raised a ladder to take them all to the ground.

Jones received hospital treatment for five contusions. Catherman broke a knuckle.

Crippled Girl, 12, Bathes In Lourdes Waters; Walks

PARIS. — The newspaper Figaro reported that Sally Ann O'Leary, the 12-year-old Pittsburgh girl who has been crippled since birth, had taken her first unsupported steps after bathing in the waters at the Shrine of Lourdes.

The account said she was "considerably improved" after her first bath and that she left her wheel chair and took several steps without aid.

The newspaper said the Lourdes bureau of certification, composed of doctors, priests and laymen, would delay any pronouncement on a possible cure for one year.

Uncle Sam Says

How many things can you buy which guarantee you these services for 10 years—$4 for every $3 just for holding on to the property for 10 years; money back for emergencies; and if it is lost or stolen nobody else has the right to cash it. Every time you buy a United States Savings Bond you get these benefits. And that's not all. The Treasury Department registers the bond in your name, the co-owner or beneficiary you designate. Keep a personal record of the serial numbers of your bonds, because it will make much easier the replacement of any Bond you may lose. Every U. S. Savings Bond represents service not only with a smile, but with profit.

War Pensions Reach Total Of 32 Million, VA Reports

WASHINGTON. — Almost 879,000 dependents of deceased veterans of all wars back to the Mexican campaign now receive pensions and compensation from the federal government.

Veterans' administration officials closed that its monthly bill for the payments amounts to more than 32 million dollars.

Of the beneficiaries. 396,000 are dependents of World War II veterans. Another 362,000 receive pensions as a result of the death of World War I veterans.

Others on the rolls include 78,000 dependents of Spanish - American war veterans, 19,000 Civil war veterans, 2,345 of Indian wars and 47 from the Mexican war.

Another 20,000 dependents of veterans who died in peacetime service also are receiving pensions.

Nazi Secret Weapons Begun In War Now Being Made Here

POINT MUGU, CALIF. — Seven German scientists are completing for America the Nazi secret weapons they began as wartime projects for Adolf Hitler, it was disclosed.

A naval spokesman at the Point Mugu guided missile test center, who would not permit use of his name, made the disclosure in denying that the Nazi experts were given priority over American war veterans at an Oxnard, Calif., housing project.

The German scientists, working under voluntary contracts with the U. S. government, were reported to have applied for U. S. citizenship. Their work at present is limited to completing German weapons undertaken at the end of the war.

Four Persons Leap Safely Out of Burning Airplane

BERLIN, GERMANY. — Four persons aboard a United States army transport plane "parachuted into the Soviet zone of Germany when the plane's route from Berlin to Paris, caught fire.

Six others aboard the plane remained in their places as it crash landed near Sangerhausen, Thuringia. None of the plane's occupants was injured, and all were taken by a Russian rescue squad to nearby Eisleben.

Mrs. H. J. Thorkelson, wife of a United States military government civilian employee, was rescued by the Russians from a tree in which she landed after bailing out of the plane.

Devotion to Wedding Cake Causes Trouble for Driver

DETROIT.—Frank Suda's devotion to a piece of wedding cake cost him dearly.

Driving home from a wedding reception, he rescued a souvenir slice of cake as it began sliding off his car seat.

But in the meantime he lost control of his car and rammed into a hydrant, which cost him $25 in repairs and a $20 fine in traffic court.

He ruefully added that his car insurance had expired and he'd have to pay out another $300 in repairs.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Lucy Ann McWaddin, who passed away one year ago today, September 24, 1946.

We go in home and gate around,
And spy your vacant chair,
And try to think you are sitting there;
As in the bygone days.
But you're in a better land,
On that eternal shore,
We pray dear mother, to meet you there,
Where parting is no more.

A wonderful mother, woman and aid;
One who was better, God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true;
One in a million—that, mother, was you.

Just in your judgment, always right,
Honest and liberal, ever upright,
Loved by your friends, and all you knew;
A wonderful mother; that, mother, was you.

You rocked us in our cradles,
You taught us on your knee,
You kissed our hurts to make them well,
And, oh, so tenderly!
And now that God has called you,
And you have said: "I come"
We know that you prepare a place
To make your Heaven our home
—Her Devoted Children.

WHY WE SAY

by STAN J. COLLINS & L. J. SLAWSON

When slaughtering hogs, butchers used to hang the bleeding animal over a bucket to catch the blood. In its death struggle the hog often kicked over the bucket. Hence "kick the bucket," to die.

Hunch Saves Baby; Tree Falls on Boy's Playpen

PHILADELPHIA. — A young father followed up a hunch—and it probably saved the life of his year-old son.

Benjamin Blank noticed several workmen sawing down a large maple tree near his house as he left for work. As he waved good-by to his only child, gurgling happily in his playpen, he suddenly became worried about the tree and asked a worker where it would fall.

"Right out there in the middle of the street, boss—that's the way we're sawing it," shot back the worker.

Blank walked some distance, then turned and hurried back, taking the child into the house.

Then the tree crashed, ripping off a part of Blank's porch and smashing the playpen into bits.

German Women Are Sent To Russian Uranium Mines

BERLIN. — The Soviet-controlled newspaper Nacht Express said the Russians were putting hundreds of German women to work in uranium mines in Southern Saxony, near the Czechoslovakian border.

The Russian - authorized report followed unconfirmed rumors that many German men were going into hiding to escape compulsory labor in the mines. The Soviets are reported working the mines at top speed to advance their atomic research.

Unofficial reports have said that many of the men employed in the mines lived in closely guarded barracks surrounded by wire fences.

Scientists Discover Two 'Lost' Elements

Atomic Barrage Produces Missing Factors.

BERKELEY, CALIF. — Two radioactive elements that existed two billion years ago were reported rediscovered by cyclotronic bombardment.

Elements 85 and 87, the "missing links," in the periodic table of elements, have been created synthetically by cyclotron and atomic oven transmutation for the first time. The discoveries end a 75-year search for the key to one of the fundamental mysteries of science.

Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg and Dr. Albert Ghiorso of the University of California said the two "missing" elements, now called astatine and francium, existed in nature more than two billion years ago but decayed into other elements.

Research that went into the discovery of the missing elements, carried out independently by two groups of scientists, was reported in the current issue of Physical Review.

Seaborg said the cyclotron discovery accounted for the missing fourth series of heavy radioactive elements in the periodic table, which has been named the "neptunium" series since it has the longest period of radioactivity of any of the other elements in the series.

The other series contain elements in the uranium, thorium and actinium groupings—all found previously in nature or in the laboratory.

Seaborg said the inability of scientists to find elements 85 and 87 had been one of science's mysteries since the table of elements was established in 1871. The table lists elements in the order of their atomic "weight," determined by the number of protons in the nuclei.

He explained the neptunium was the "father" of the series and of the two elements. Like all radioactive elements, they decayed at a fixed rate which in the course of millions of years wiped them out of existence, he said.

United States to Maintain Flag on Mount Suribachi

TOKYO.—The army said that the American flag will continue to fly atop Mount Suribachi on Iwo Jima.

Officers of the Marianas-Bonin command explained that it will be possible to maintain the flag on Mount Suribachi through use of a foot trail.

Rapid deterioration of the lone road to the historic mountain flagpole had made the customary jeep trip dangerous. Army officials had estimated necessary repairs to the roadway would cost $100,000, which wasn't available.
